Langhorne Players Offers Balanced, Varied 2009 Season

Newtown, PA, March 30, 2009 – Langhorne Players, an all-volunteer theater company located in the Spring Garden Mill in Tyler State Park, is proud to announce its 2009 season: The Underpants by Carl Sternheim with an adaptation by Steve Martin (a comedy); Three Tall Women by Edward Albee (a drama); Kimberly Akimbo by David Lindsay-Abaire (a dramatic comedy); Dangerous Corner by J.B. Priestly (a mystery); and Darwin in Malibu by Crispin Whittell (a dramatic comedy).

Bernard DiCasimirro of Morrisville, PA, chair of the Play Reading Committee, said, “We worked diligently to create a balanced season that reflects a range of productions including a comedy, a drama, a mystery and two dramatic comedies. True to our company’s reputation, these plays are works you won’t see everywhere and are ‘Plays Worth Talking About.’ They are especially well suited to our intimate, 73-seat theater.”

The first production, The Underpants, opens Friday, April 17. Tickets for Wednesday, Thursday and Sunday performances are $12; Friday and Saturday performances are $14.

Founded in 1947, Langhorne Players is a non-profit, volunteer community theater company that produces high quality, unconventional comedies and dramas. Open auditions are held for each show and the company enthusiastically welcomes new volunteers and talent. Productions take place in a 73-seat theater in the 200-year-old Spring Garden Mill located in Tyler State Park, Newtown, PA.
